

¡Vamos al Perú!

(We're going to Peru together!)

2010 Delegation
July 1-14

Iglesia Luterana Evangélica Peruana

Walking into her humble home in a poor Lima neighborhood called Paraíso (paradise), our small group sat down and listened as the woman of the house told her story. She and her husband walk the long distance to a different community to go to their church, Luz Divina, every Sunday. One Sunday, while they were gone, thieves had come into their house and stolen almost everything.

Wiping the tears from her tired eyes, she changed the subject very quickly. She told us about how happy she was and despite everything, she could not help but feel joyful. Some days she felt so happy that she could not keep herself from singing. When her neighbors would hear her singing hymns and church songs they would come over and ask, "Why are you so happy?" She would proceed to tell them about her faith and her church and invite them to come on Sundays.

Just like Paul and Silas, who shared the good news of Jesus with their guard by singing in prison, this woman is a witness for Jesus to her neighbors by sharing her extreme joy in knowing God, singing in the midst of her losses.

We have many amazing brothers and sisters in Peru with lots of inspiring stories such as these, and their faith and ability to witness are strengths that abound and can teach us so much.
